EXAMPLE QUESTION
"Tell me about a time you handled a conflict with a teammate."

During a project, a teammate and I disagreed on how to approach a key deliverable. Instead of letting it escalate, I suggested a one-on-one conversation to hear their perspective. We realized we had the same goal but different assumptions, which made it easy to align. I proposed a combined approach that incorporated both of our ideas. The project was a success, and it actually strengthened our working relationship.
